The Bay location downtown would need more than just one unique high-end retailer to reignite a fire under urban shoppers, according to Downtown BIZ executive director Stefano Grande.

BIZ weighs in on the chances of high-end retailer coming to town

Big dreams

As Hudson's Bay Co. (HBC) announced a deal to take over U.S. luxury retailer Saks on Monday, the head of the Downtown Winnipeg BIZ said a Saks opening at the Bay downtown could breathe new life into the core.

But Stefano Grande isn't holding his breath for the high-end American chain to come.

"We're not that big of a market, so you'll probably see the bigger cities like Toronto, Calgary, Montreal, Vancouver and Ottawa make their first moves," he said. "But those are the types of retailers that should be encouraged to set up downtown."

The $2.9-billion friendly deal would see HBC take over operations of Saks' 42 U.S. stores, including its flagship Saks Fifth Avenue in New York. HBC said it would open up to seven Saks locations in Canada and as many as 25 Saks Off Fifth discount stores on this side of the border if the deal goes through.

Winnipeggers around the downtown Bay had mixed reactions when asked if the Saks name would entice them through the nearly 90-year-old building's revolving doors.

"It might," said Judy, who didn't give her last name but said she stops in at the Bay every couple weeks.

"It's a well-known name. I think it would add something to Winnipeg."

Students leaving the University of Winnipeg had a decidedly different reaction.

"Not a chance," laughed Craig Krochak, 21. "I'm a student; I can barely afford to get by as it is."

Sellout. Many new records, as both Saturdays see more than 10,000 tickets sold

SHANE GIBSON

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

It's official — this year's Winnipeg Fringe Festival was the biggest ever.

Ticketed attendance hit 101,488, breaking last year's record of 100,621, while daily-attendance records were broken on seven of the festival's 12 days, with more than 10,000 tickets sold on both Saturdays.

There were also a record-setting 187 sellouts, and $705,553.75 in box-office revenue returned to the performing companies this year, festival organizers say.

"The fact that we were able to not only maintain, but surpass the record we set at last year's 25th-anniversary Fringe shows that Manitobans have a

"There's a real appetite for independent theatre in our community that seems to grow every year, and that's really encouraging for the future of the Fringe."

Winnipeg's Fringe Festival is the second-largest in the country, behind only Edmonton's Fringe Festival — and only by a little. In 2011, the Edmonton Fringe sold 104,142 tickets.

Winnipeggers will have a chance to try to beat the record again at next year's festival, which runs from July 16 to 27.

Inquiry. Let aboriginals run social programs, lawyer says

Aboriginals need more control over child welfare, education and other social programs because government efforts have largely failed them, the Phoenix Sinclair inquiry was told Monday.

Aboriginal parents have good reason not to trust social workers who seize their children, lawyer Catherine Dunn said, given the impact of the residential school system, which, for decades, separated children from their families.

"It comes back down to that kitchen door opening and somebody coming in and taking your children, and you saying to the mother 'Get past that ... we're here to help you.'

"It is asking too much of aboriginal families in Manitoba who did trust the system, who gave their children away to the Indian residential school system and received them back as shadows of their former selves."

Dunn represents Ka Ni Kanichihk, a non-profit group that provides community programs to at-risk aboriginals. She was the last of more than a dozen lawyers to make final submissions to the inquiry into the 2005 death of Phoenix Sinclair.

Dunn called on inquiry Comm. Ted Hughes to recommend more social programs be delivered through aboriginal-run groups. She also asked for more funding and said parents whose children have been taken by social workers should have the right to a publicly funded advocate.

Hundreds rage at police after an officer guns down teenager

Toronto streetcar slaying. Assurances from police chief do little to quell outrage

Hundreds of protesters shouted at police and called for justice Monday as they gathered at the spot where a young man was shot dead in an altercation with Toronto police on a streetcar.

The mother and sister of Sammy Yatim, 18, were among a crowd of protesters that stretched more than a block as marchers headed to the intersection where the teenager died on Saturday morning.

The death has sparked a flood of anger at police, who have suspended the officer involved. The crowd chanted "Shame!" with a handful of protesters angrily confronting police monitoring the march.

Protesters briefly stopped and vented outside a police station.

Ontario's police watchdog is probing the incident, which was captured on video. Yatim was reportedly armed with a knife when he was shot.

Police Chief Bill Blair said the force will do all it can to answer the questions surrounding police conduct.

In addition to the Special Investigations Unit probe, he said he would be conducting a separate review to see if police procedures were followed.

Ontario's ombudsman also weighed in, saying his office would be reviewing the incident to determine if it could trigger a wider investigation.

Taser death. Mountie found not guilty of lying

An officer who was among the four Mounties at the Vancouver airport the night Robert Dziekanski died has been found not guilty of lying at a public inquiry into the Polish immigrant's death.

B.C. Supreme Court Justice Mark McEwan, who heard the case without a jury, said that the Crown failed to prove Const. Bill Bentley knowingly made a false statement.

Bentley was the first to be tried for perjury for his testimony during the 2009 inquiry seeking to find answers about what happened the night the officers responded to a call about a distraught man throwing furniture.

Dziekanski died on the airport floor in October 2007. Bentley said in his notes that Dziekanski came at the officers screaming and brandishing a stapler before they hit him with a Taser and wrestled him to the ground.

But video evidence contradicted some of Bentley's notes and statements.

McEwan raised doubts about the Crown's theory that Bentley and the other officers colluded on their stories to homicide investigators and then lied at the inquiry. He noted civilian witnesses made the same sort of mistakes as the Mounties.

Monkey see monkey don't. On the origin of monogamy

Only a few species of mammals are monogamous, and now duelling scientific teams think they have figured out why.

One team looked just at primates. The researchers said the exclusive pairing of a male and a female evolved as a way to let fathers defend their young against other males.

The other team got a different answer after examining about 2,000 species of mammals. They concluded that mammals became monogamous because females had spread out geographically, and so males had to stick close to fend off the competition.

But both teams discounted one long-standing explanation:

That monogamy provides two parents for rearing offspring. That's just a side benefit.

And both teams agreed that humans do not quite fit in the monogamous category.

Dieter Lukas of the University of Cambridge, lead author of the mammals study, found monogamous species have fewer physical differences between the genders. They are about the same size, live about as long. That's not humans.

"Strict monogamy, such as (with) the gibbons, is not what humans do," agreed Christopher Opie of the University College London, who was the lead author of the primate study.

Francis' predecessor, Pope Benedict XVI, signed a document in 2005 that said men who had deep-rooted homosexual tendencies should not be priests.

Francis was much more conciliatory in his first news conference as pope, saying gay clergymen should be forgiven and their sins forgotten.

The comments did not signal any change in church policy. Catholic teaching still holds that homosexual acts are "intrinsically disordered."

But they indicated a shift in tone under Francis' young papacy and an emphasis on a church that is more inclusive and merciful rather than critical and disciplinary.

Princesses in India reclaim $4B estate

It has all the makings of a bestselling novel. An Indian maharaja crowned as a toddler and rich beyond imagination falls into a deep depression in old age after losing his only son.

After his own death a few months later, his daughters, the princesses, don't get the palaces, gold and vast lands they claim as their birthright.

Instead, they are given a few dollars a month from palace officials they accuse of scheming to usurp the royal billions with a forged will. The fight rages for decades.

On Saturday, an Indian court brought this chapter to a close, ruling that the will of Maharaja Harinder Singh Brar of Faridkot was fabricated. His daughters will now inherit the estimated $4-billion US estate, instead of a trust run by his former servants and palace officials.

Hudson's Bay will open Saks stores in Canada

Retail. Following $2.9B acquisition of U.S. retailer, HBC will roll out chain's luxury and discount banners north of border

Hudson's Bay Co. says it will open up to seven full-line Saks stores in Canada and about two dozen locations under a discount banner once it completes a $2.9-billion US friendly deal to acquire the U.S. luxury retailer.

"We're going to move as quickly as we can," Richard Baker, HBC's chairman and chief executive, told analysts during a conference call on Monday.

"We think there's a lot of opportunity for us to accomplish that rollout relatively quickly."

"We're going to move as quickly as we can. We think there's a lot of opportunity for us to accomplish that rollout relatively quickly."

Richard Baker, HBC's chairman and CEO

Saks currently operates 42 stores, including its flagship Saks Fifth Avenue in New York.

HBC says it may transform some of its Bay stores into Saks locations, open new Saks stores in existing buildings or, in some cases, build new stores from the ground up.

The retailer says it also plans to open up to 25 Saks Off Fifth discount stores in Canada and is eyeing the possibility of starting a real-estate investment trust.

Paul Swinand, an analyst with Morningstar, said the deal will give HBC a portfolio of prime U.S. real estate.

"There's no way they could have accessed these real-estate assets at any other price, or in any other way," said Swinand.

"These are assets in locations where you couldn't get that size of a store otherwise."

The combined portfolio of the Bay stores in Canada, Lord & Taylor in the U.S. Northeast and Saks locations would comprise more than 32 million square feet of retail space, said Baker. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teflon. Scientists find consumer chemical in polar bears' brains

Polar bears in East Greenland have dangerous pollutants that also appear in Teflon in their brains, according to Danish researchers.

"Other pollutants dissipate into the environment, but these don't," says lead researcher Rune Dietz, professor of wildlife biology and toxicology at Aarhus University in Denmark.

"And they don't exist in polar bears' habitat either. A lot of the production of products with these substances now takes place in China. (Our findings) show how far these pollutants are able to travel."

The dangerous chemicals, known as PerFluoroAlkyl Substances (PFASs), are in everyday items like Teflon pans and textile coatings. When a lowly fish species eats the chemical, and is then eaten itself, the chemical moves up the food chain.

The chemicals travel long distances inside the bodies of the various fish species and marine mammals, and eventually arrive in polar bear habitats. "When you get to the top of the food chain, where the polar bears reside, you get the highest concentration of these toxins," explains Dietz.

Lax regulation in China

- "The increase in PFASs in humans and polar bears is very frightening," says Danish researcher Rune Dietz. "The good news is that produc-

SEX ISN'T FOR POLITICOS TO DECIDE

Politicians aren't really known for being a particularly prudish bunch — Anthony Weiner, Bill Clinton, Eliot Spitzer and other public officials have had their share of high-profile sex scandals. And yet, a number of public figures made headlines last week for their sexually conservative policies.

American politician Ken Cuccinelli recently launched a web campaign aimed at resurrecting Virginia's Crimes Against Nature law, which would ban oral and anal sex between any two individuals. If passed, the law would make certain sex acts a felony with no consideration of context, effectively turning happily consenting, pleasure-seeking adults into sex offenders.

Across the pond, British Prime Minister David Cameron announced a new initiative to restrict access to online pornography throughout the country. This default porn filter will automatically block access to all sexually explicit websites and

SHE SAYS
Jessica Napier
metronews.ca

British citizens who are interested in viewing racy content will be forced into having a very awkward conversation with their service provider.

Both Cuccinelli and Cameron cite "protecting children" and "family values" as justification for their overreaching policies. "Family values" being one of those vague phrases that has no concrete meaning and is employed emphatically by right-wing politicians to attack everything from gay marriage to working mothers to Gossip Girl.

There's no doubt that this is tricky territory. Obviously intervention is necessary when it comes to things like child pornography, exploitation and sexual predators, but allowing government bodies to regulate what is or isn't sexually acceptable behaviour among the masses is a very slippery slope. I can't help but think of the overzealous minister in Footloose who is determined to outlaw rock music and dancing in his fictional Bible-thumping town.

Whether you agree with Cuccinelli's Crimes Against Nature law or Cameron's porn filter, you have to admit that both policies seem utterly impossible to enforce. This effort to BAN ALL THE NAKED THINGS is just an exhausting waste of time and public resources.

Sex is everywhere, online and in person, and it comes in seemingly limitless varieties. Teaching our children that sex is something that is immoral and should be forbidden is going to create confusion and unhealthy attitudes toward their own sexuality.

When it comes to sexual pleasure, government officials should have no right to come between two consenting adults — or between an individual and a computer screen, for that matter.

Rather than finding new ways to control private (and legal) sexual activities, we should focus on having frank discussions with our children about sex and the dangers of the web.

Woody Allen: The good, the bad and the ugly

Director's cut.

Filmmaker's body of work is nothing but prolific — here Metro ranks the best to the worst from 1969 to the present

MATT PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York

It's that time of year again — that is, when Woody Allen releases his annual film. The exact time of year fluctuates. (In the '90s, it was always in the fall, in time for Oscars. For the last few years he's been an improbable summer movie filmmaker.)

And whenever one of his new films is released, it's time to do that thing when you sum up his career, looking back over his rather daunting body of work — a film per year, with few exceptions, since 1969!

Jordan Hoffman, over at Film.com, has done a terrific film-by-film ranking of Woody's 43 1/3 films, though he also includes some that he only wrote and/or acted in, like What's New, Pussycat?, Play It Again, Sam, and The Front. (It feels weird calling him "Allen" — which is, in fact, his actual first name — and especially "Mr. Allen," a la The New York Times.)

It's a great round-up, one not afraid to mount cogent defences of such runs like Shadows and Fog and Another Woman.

List justifications

Love and Death, our number one, is not always cited as Woody Allen's best straight-up comedy, much less his best overall film. People tend to gravitate toward Sleeper, which is a touch more sophisticated and reined-in. But that's why we love this: this movie is insane. It's incredibly dense, with parodies of Dostoyevsky and Ingmar Bergman and Sergei Eisenstein flying madly about. (It's crazy this is one of his biggest money-makers.) However, it's his last full-on comedy before the hybrid of comedy and drama that is Annie Hall.

And here, without any neurotic self-deprecation, is ours. (Note: This is only theatrically-

Jackson finally finished with Tolkien?

That's a wrap.

Filmmaker shares photos of his last days working on The Hobbit trilogy

Peter Jackson has wrapped up filming The Hobbit trilogy and shared pictures of his last day on the set with his Facebook fans.

The New Zealand filmmaker provided a steady stream of updates and photos from the set of the final film, The Hobbit: There And Back Again, on Friday. The second film, The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug, will be released in December, and the finale appears in 2014.

The director posted pictures of dwarves, crew members and actor Martin Freeman, who plays the protagonist, hobbit Bilbo Baggins. The photo updates began and ended with pictures of Jackson's cat, Mr. Smudge. The final photo shows the director and feline cuddling, along with the caption: "A long day. A great day. Thank you all for being part of it! Now for some sleep!"

The Hobbit, based on J.R.R. Tolkien's novel of the same name, is the prequel to Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings.

It follows Baggins' adventures as he tries to help a group of dwarves regain their wealth and stature from the dragon Smaug.

Amanda Bynes ALL GETTY IMAGES

Bynes' rocky bond with parents revealed ahead of conservatorship bid

Amanda Bynes' parents may be the last people she wants in control of her life and finances, as the troubled actress and her mom and dad have always had a tense relationship, at least according to Bynes' former pal Ana Rivera, a model, who says Bynes resents her "overprotective" parents for

"telling her what to do and pushing her into acting, a career she never wanted," Rivera tells Radar. "She said she'd never been close to her family." Bynes' psychiatric hold has been extended, and a court date is set for next week to review her parents' bid for a conservatorship.

Cory Monteith

Monteith 'will forever be in my heart,' says Lea

Lea Michele is breaking her silence online after her Glee co-star and real-life boyfriend Cory Monteith died of an overdose earlier this month.

The actress posted a photo of her and Monteith on Twitter Monday, along with a message thanking her followers for "helping me through this time with your enormous love & support." She added: "Cory will forever be in my heart." Monteith was found dead July 13 in Vancouver. An autopsy revealed the 31-year-old actor died of an overdose of heroin and alcohol. He and Michele played an on-again, off-again couple in the popular Fox series and were an off-screen couple for about a year.

THE WORD

Brad Pitt and Jennifer Aniston, both happily engaged to other people eight years after their divorce, MIGHT spot each other at this September's Toronto International Film Festival, and this MIGHT be a big deal, because they MIGHT hug hello, and they MIGHT talk, and they MIGHT wish each other well, and this will cause the universe to implode (if the folks at Us Weekly have anything to do with it, that is). A normal, civilized, post-divorce catch-up sesh surely is off the table for these two because in media, civil exes are boring. We want to catch these two either a) in a blowout as big as a Real Housewives fight, or b) with their pants down in the bathroom at the Four Seasons Toronto. If they're anything like normal Americans, though, they'll just be courteous and chat for a few minutes. Either that or pull the ol' "Oh, my ex is here? Let me pretend to look very busy on my phone for the next hour and a half."

Lindsay Lohan

Lohan back to work after 90-day rehab stint

Thanks to 90 court-ordered days in rehab, it's been a fairly quiet summer for Lindsay Lohan, but that all changes this week. The troubled starlet will be released from her treatment facility Wednesday, and she's reportedly set to jump straight into promotional work for her controversial new film,

The Canyons, according to the New York Post. First there's a Twitter Q-and-A Friday with the film's director, Paul Schrader, and writer, Bret Easton Ellis. Lohan is rumoured to be joining them. After that, the actress reportedly has her heart set on heading to the Venice Film Festival with the film.

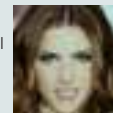

Lisa Kudrow

Phoebe and Chandler never wanted it to end

While talk of a Friends reunion movie may be dead in the water, stars Matthew Perry and Lisa Kudrow admit they wish the show hadn't gone off the air when it did. "If I had a time machine, I would like to go back to 2004 and not have stopped," says Perry, sitting in for Piers Morgan on his talk show, with Kudrow serving as his guest. Kudrow agrees: "If it were up to us, you know, individually, then yes. I would keep going," she says. "There would have come a time anyway when someone would have said, 'We've had enough.' But why not have fun until they do?"

Best Health

Soothe those insect bites

BEST HEALTH MINUTE
Bonnie Munday
Editor-in-chief
Best Health Magazine

In the Summer issue of Best Health, on newsstands now, we feature an article by freelance writer Michelle Villett, who has rounded up the options available for taking the itch out of insect bites.

Tablets

Benadryl Allergy Caplets are an oral antihistamine containing diphenhydramine, which helps reduce the swelling of the skin from any insect bite or sting, and reduces the itching from mosquito bites and ant stings. But it can be sedating, so other good options are remedies containing loratadine (in Claritin Allergy), cetirizine (in Reactin) and desloratadine (in Aeriuss).

Topical antihistamines

These are less potent than

Take a bite out of your pain. ISTOCK PHOTOS

oral remedies but can still soothe itchiness: After-Bite Gel, Benadryl Itch Cream, Claritin Skin, Polysporin Itch Relief or Lanacane.

Natural remedies

Taking an oatmeal bath helps soothe pain and itching. Aveeno Daily Moisturizing Bath is anti-inflammatory and helps skin retain moisture. Or you could try applying a paste of baking soda and water to bites or stings; the sodium bicarbonate can reduce itch.

There's also an exciting new option for prevention. Health Canada has just approved an all-natural oral mosquito repellent that also claims to repel black flies and other biting bugs. It's called Mozi-Q. Tablets contain staphysagria, a substance derived from delphinium plants. Find it at health-food retailers.

Let's get physical ... right after breakfast

Health food. Dig into a bowl of cereal designed to ensure you and your partner are late for work

MICHELLE CASTILLO
Metro World News

Start your day right with a few tablespoons of, no, not Lucky Charms or Frosted Flakes. We're talking Sex Cereal. The "scientifically-formulated" blends are made specifically for men and women to enhance their sexual abilities.

It might sound a bit nutty, but creator, president and CEO Peter Ehrlich says that these all-natural foods are things that people have been eating for centuries to spice up their love life — only this time, they've gathered the best ingredients and combined them in an easy to eat snack. We talked to Ehrlich about how he came up with the idea for the cereal and what happens to you if you eat the other gender's mix.

How did you come up with the idea for this product?

I walked into a vegetarian vegan fair. You know vegetarians and vegans take themselves very serious. Everything was straightforward and pedantic. There was no humour. I came out of that vegan fair thinking, "Wouldn't it be great if we created a cereal that would be great for your sexual health?" It had to be different for men and women because biologically men and women are different.

What is the difference between the men's and women's blend?

When you think of Viagra, it creates a vascular effect so a man can get what he wants. The cereal has camu camu, which has the highest concentration of vitamin C in the world, and vitamin C is very vascular. Every ingredient in the men's cereal has to do with testosterone and vascular support. The women's cereal is blended for hormonal balance and estrogen support.

Watermelon introduces its savoury side in light salad

Watermelon, Tomato, Pistachio and Feta Salad

Nothing beats a summer salad that combines watermelon, tomatoes and feta.

The balsamic glaze is sensational, and you avoid the calories and fat of oil-based dressings.

Follow directions exactly for dressing. If too thick, just add a little more balsamic vinegar.

1. To make the salad: Place arugula, tomatoes, watermelon, feta, pistachios and mint in a large serving bowl.

2. To make the dressing: In a small skillet, add the balsamic vinegar and maple syrup. Bring the mixture to a boil, and cook at a rapid boil for 8 to 10 minutes or just until the mixture bubbles on the entire surface and is slightly syrupy. Do not overcook, or the syrup will get too thick.

Ingredients

Salad

- 4 cups (1 L) baby arugula or baby spinach
- 1 cup (250 ml) small red or yellow grape tomatoes
- 4 cups (1 L) cubed watermelon
- 1/3 cup diced reduced fat feta cheese (2 1/2 oz/75 g)

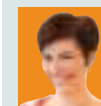

- 1/3 cup (80 ml) toasted chopped pistachios
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) chopped mint or parsley

Dressing

- 1 cup (250 ml) balsamic vinegar
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) maple syrup

It isn't 'just water'

NUTRI-BITES
Theresa Albert
DHN, RNCP
myfriendinfood.com

Oh, sure, it is 92 per cent water, but the other eight per cent of watermelon is a powerhouse. (And there is no such thing as "just" water anyway). Watermelon is a rare, excellent source of an important amino acid called citrulline, which is key in exercise muscle recovery and the elimination of ammonia.

The red flesh is delicious, but the white rind is even more concentrated in this nutrient. Don't throw it away! Trim the outer skin and save the white, less tasty portion to make a relish that is delicious with a cheese board, on baguette or burgers.

Watermelon Relish

- 2 cups (500 ml) watermelon rind. Remove the dark-green skin and cut the white part into 1/4-inch (0.6 cm) cubes
- 2 tsp salt (10 ml)

- 2 1/2 cups water (625 ml) and 3/4 cup (185 ml) water, divided
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) sugar
- 2 tbsps (25 ml) lemon zest, finely grated
- 2 tbsps (25 ml) lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp (2 1/2 ml) cinnamon
- 1/8 tsp cloves (0.5 ml)

Mix rind with salt and 2 1/2 cups (625 ml) water. Let stand covered at room temperature overnight. Drain and rinse well.

In saucepan, combine sugar with 3/4 cup (185 ml) water, the lemon zest and juice and cinnamon and cloves. Bring to boil over medium heat, add rind and cook gently for 40 mins. or until the rind is translucent and tender (do not boil hard as the mixture could caramelize). When done, remove from heat and cool. Keep refrigerated.

Side dish. Grilled Corn with Queso Fresco

1. Heat the grill to high.
2. Rub each of the ears of corn with a bit of olive oil. Once the grill is hot, arrange the corn in a single layer on the grill grates. Cover the grill and reduce the heat to medium. Cook for 6 minutes, turning several times.

3. Meanwhile, use a grater (large holes) to grate the queso fresco into a medium bowl. Add the paprika, garlic powder, salt and pepper, then toss well.

4. When the corn is ready, use tongs to transfer it to a rimmed baking sheet or baking pan that will fit on your grill. It's OK to stack the corn. Sprinkle the cheese mixture over the corn.

Arrange butter chunks evenly over the corn. Place the pan on the grill, cover and cook for 4 minutes, or until the butter melts. Serve. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients

- 8 ears of corn, husks and silk removed
- Olive oil
- 8-oz block queso fresco cheese
- 1 tsp paprika
- 1 tsp garlic powder
- 1/2 tsp kosher salt
- 1/2 tsp ground black pepper
- 1 stick butter, cut into 8 pieces

What makes carrot cake such a crowd pleaser is its soft, dense texture and distinct flavour created by the aromatic mixture of cinnamon and sugar. With three cups of carrots included in the recipe and two grams of fibre per serving, it's the perfect cake for any family occasion.

1. Preheat oven to 350 F (180 C) and grease two 9-inch (23 cm) cake pans.

2. Beat oil and sugars together in a large bowl until combined. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

3. Next, combine flour, cinnamon, baking soda, baking powder and salt in a separate large bowl.

4. Add flour mixture to egg mixture. Mix, just until combined. Fold in carrots.

5. Divide batter evenly in prepared pans. Bake in preheated oven 25 to 30 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in centre of cake comes out clean. Cool in pans on wire cooling rack for 20 minutes. Remove from pans and cool completely on wire cooling rack.

6. For icing: cream butter and cream cheese in a medium bowl. Add icing sugar, one cup (250 ml) at a time. Beat well after each addition. Add vanilla. Continue beating until fluffy. Add 1 tbsp (15 ml) milk at a time to thin out icing if necessary. Place one cake on serving dish. Spread with icing. Top with remaining cake layer. Spread top with remaining icing.

Canadians on the brink of debt disaster? Bank says the statistics may be flawed

Debunking the numbers is a messy business, but always worth it. ISTOCK IMAGES

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca

"Statistics are like a bikini. What they reveal is suggestive, but what they conceal is vital." So said the late Aaron Levenstein, American professor of business.

I'm sure that's what TD Bank analysts commented to each other when they re-analyzed the oft-reported statistics about Canadians' perilous indebtedness.

The numbers go like this: Canadians' debt-to-income ratio is 162, so we owe $162 for every $100 of after tax income. This is worrying because Americans ran up a debt-to-income ratio of 163 just before the financial crash.

The falling sky is nigh, say the financial prognosticators, especially in light of Canada's stratospheric housing market.

But TD maintains that the statistics are flawed. The Canadian figures include interest on non-mortgage debt and out of pocket health-care expenses, neither of which factor in to the American numbers.

When such costs are taken into account, our pre-crash neighbours had a debt-to-income ratio of 177 while we Canadians now stand at 156 per cent.

Certainly reason for concern, but we're not on the brink of Armageddon.

TD's reanalysis begs the question of why bogus, or at least flawed, statistics and conclusions can float around without contradiction, sometimes for decades.

These days surveys, reports and studies are hugely popular with all manner of companies and government agencies (TD, by the way, loves them.)

They're cheap advertising in a time of shrinking media outlets and budgets. For over-worked journalists, predigested research is very attractive.

Often the surveys produce an interesting slice of information about our lives and society. But some are just plain garbage.

A recent one about insurance bothered me and I discovered that most of the information had been lifted from an American study and then Canadianized poorly.

The problem with inaccurate or misleading surveys and reports is that they can create or solidify public opinion.

Take the level of Canadian indebtedness. Our debt level is too high, no question. But when statistics indicate that we're nearing a precipice, the public gets scared.

Worse, politicians leap into the fray and create lousy policies based on faulty assumptions.

I'd like to see a lot more debunking done, along the lines of TD Bank's recent report.

Getting touchy feely with robots

ELISABETH BRAW

Metro World News

Attention naysayers who predict that robots will never be like humans: the robots just made a huge leap in our direction. Researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, have invented robot skin — and it reacts when touched.

"With the interactive e-skin, we have demonstrated an elegant system on plastic that can be wrapped around different objects to enable a new form of human-machine interfacing," explained Ali Javey, an associate professor of electrical engineering and computer sciences at Berkeley who led the research team.

The e-skin is not really skin, of course: it's flexible plastic.

But its sensors react just like human skin. Lights flash when the skin is touched: softly in response to light touching, brightly in response to more pressure. The plastic sheets can be wrapped around robot limbs.

The e-skin isn't really skin. It's actually a flexible plastic with sensors.

ALI JAVEY AND CHUAN WANG

This will help the android creatures react to human beings. But the purpose of the skin is not to make robots more human. Instead, the researchers envisage it being used in wallpaper that functions like today's touchscreen devices.

"Unlike the stiff touchscreens on iPhones, computer monitors and ATMs, the e-skin is flexible and can be easily laminated on any surface," says the study's lead co-author, Chuan Wang, an assistant professor of electrical and computer engineering at Michigan State University.

"I could also imagine an e-skin bandage applied to an arm as a health monitor that continuously checks blood pressure and pulse rates," Wang says.

The results of the study, which was funded by the Pentagon's pioneering research arm, DARPA, were published in the scientific journal Nature Materials.

Mazzola lifts Goldeyes to series win over Aigles

The Trois-Rivières Aigles of the Can-Am League and the Winnipeg Goldeyes of the American Association wrapped their 2013 inter-league schedule on Monday night in front of 5,088 at Shaw Park. The hometown Fish clipped the Aigles 6-5 to win the series 3-1 and improve their record to 34-32.

The American Association and Can-Am independent baseball leagues began interleague play in 2012. The Goldeyes made their first-ever trip out to La Belle Province earlier this month as part of a 10-game swing through Quebec and New York state. Through seven games against the Aigles this year, Winnipeg went 5-2.

Starter Pete Gehle got back to .500 on the year (4-4, 4.13 ERA), capturing the win while tossing six complete innings. He allowed four runs off eight hits and added six strikeouts.

Relievers Kaohi Downing and Chris Kisson held the Aigles scoreless in the late frames, but closer Patrick Keating earned the save, his 13th this year, with a one-run ninth where he fanned two Trois-Rivières batters.

Josh Mazzola provided the offensive pop for the Fish by going two-for-four and crushing a two-run shot as part of a four-run first.

Winnipeg currently sits seven games back of the AA North Division-leading Fargo-Moorhead RedHawks, whom the Fish visit for a three-game series beginning Friday.

NHL. Jets' 23-year-old says agreeing to long-term $36M deal was a no-brainer

One-franchise man

"It was very, I guess, humbling to know that Winnipeg wanted me to stay there for a long time as much as I did." Zach Bogosian on his newly signed deal with the Jets

The Winnipeg Jets have signed defenceman Zach Bogosian to a seven-year, $36-million US contract.

Bogosian was the Jets' final restricted free agent who needed a new deal. He'll count just over $5.14 million against the salary cap.

"I made it clear since ... my first time being in Winnipeg it was obviously a place that I wanted to be for a long time," Bogosian said on a conference call Monday. "It was definitely a no-brainer for me to want to stay there for a long time."

The 23-year-old has 34 goals and 69 assists in 297 games, all with the same franchise, beginning with its days as the Atlanta Thrashers.

"I'm just real happy that Winnipeg believed in me and kind of gave me another chance to kind of prove myself," he said. "I didn't exactly have the best start of my career in Atlanta, and obviously moving up to Winnipeg gave me a new chance to play in a hockey market and play in a hockey town that really I enjoyed playing in front of."

Bogosian was invited to the U.S. Olympic orientation camp that will take place next month.

Last week the Jets signed right-winger Blake Wheeler to a six-year, $33.6-million contract. They also gave restricted free-agent centre Bryan Little a five-year, $23.5-million deal.

Bogosian wasn't sure why he was last in line for a new contract but didn't care about the timing as long as it got done.

CFL. Lions QB Lulay sees himself in Argos back-up

Travis Lulay knows what Zach Collaros is going through.

It wasn't that long ago that Lulay, now a Grey Cup champion and MVP with the B.C. Lions, was a rookie quarterback getting ready to make his first CFL start.

Collaros will get his shot in place of injured Toronto starter Ricky Ray when the Argonauts (2-2) host the Lions (3-1) in a rare Tuesday night game at Rogers Centre.

"He's excited, I can guarantee you that," Lulay said Monday. "I can think back to my first start. I saw him doing an interview and you could see that excitement."

"Everyone's been there. We can relate to being in that situation."

The 24-year-old Collaros spent most of last season on the injured list and sat No. 4 on Toronto's depth chart but will get his first professional start after Ray suffered a knee injury in the Argonauts' 35-19 victory over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers on July 19. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

People are going out of their way to be nice to you and you should go out of your way to return the favour. Fun is for everyone but especially for you.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Why are you hesitating to start something you know you will enjoy — and which could make lots of money? Whatever the reason, you've got to get over it or you will look back later and regret that you were not more dynamic.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

There are major changes going on around you and the good news is every one of them can be used by you to further your interests. Whatever else you do today don't fear change — make it work for you.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

It seems you are focusing on things you fear rather than things you have to look forward to. That's silly and you know it. Everyone else thinks you're a star, so why don't you? Start acting like one today.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Fate has a way of giving us what we need, though whether we want it at the time is another matter, of course. What happens today may shock you but it will also inspire you to aim higher.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Today's Venus-Pluto link will bring back your passion for something you seem to have forgotten about for a while. This time you'll give it your undivided attention, and this time you'll see it through.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

These may be fun times but you should also be giving some thought to what changes you would like to see. They must, of course, be serious changes. Going through the motions won't be any good.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You'll be moving around today, in pursuit of things you have set your heart on. Remember that not everyone shares your taste in possessions.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The planets are urging you to put bad feelings behind you and patch up a relationship that still has a lot of mileage in it. You have come so far together, surely you can go all the way to the finish line.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may not like having to say "no" to people who depend on you but if you don't it will be you who loses out. Haven't they been depending on you a bit too much? SALLY BROMPTON
